

“I’m Just Trying to Matter”

“My children, love must not be a matter of words or talk; it must be genuine and show itself in action”

I John 3:18

Whenever June Carter Cash, the country music icon, was asked how she was doing, she always responded, “I’m just trying to matter.” What a wonderful response! There is great depth in this simple answer. We can matter and make the world a better place through the things we do. You can matter through your Fifth Sunday Offering to Christian Care Communities.

Your gift will help do big things like providing a safe and secure place for someone to live who has outlived their resources, or providing skilled nursing care for someone recovering from a serious illness. But your gift helps do many small things that really matter to the 2,300 older adults and their families served each day by Christian Care Communities --

- A nursing assistance holding the hand of a frightened 95 year old in the middle of the night
- A chaplain comforting and praying with a family that has just lost a loved one
- A social worker helping a resident with insurance papers
- An activities director leading a group of older adults in an exercise class
- Ice cream and cake at a Summer festival
- A pharmacist preparing daily medications
- An outing to Derby Dinner Play House
- A caring staff rounding up furniture for a new resident who has none
- A weekly worship service for those who can no longer attend their own church
- Loving hands feeding a person paralyzed from a stroke

Your Fifth Sunday gift matters, and through it, you matter in 100’s of ways. Give generously!
